"Our people are why this company is a great place to work," said Jan Becker, Autodesk senior vice president of human resources and real estate. "You'll find our culture is passionate and respectful – that's why employees all over the world take pride in making software that helps users design and create a better world."

This honor is thanks to Autodesk's work-life balance and paid sabbaticals after four years of employment. The company has been recognized as a "Best Company Work For" in the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, China, Switzerland and Germany.

Creators of the list, Great Place to Work® has found that employees believe they work for great organizations when they consistently trust the people they work for, have pride in what they do and enjoy the people they work with. Applicant companies opt to participate in the selection process, which includes an employee survey and an in-depth questionnaire about their programs and company practices.
